     he's currently not on.
 4
              THE COURT: Okay. Thank you.
 5
              Is there anyone else who's joined who 6 wishes to state their appearance?
 7
              MR. DELIKAT: Yes, Your Honor. It's Mike
8
     Delikat, and I'm going to stand up for -- 9
              THE COURT: I'm sorry, sir. I can't hear 10 any of what you're saying. Your line is breaking 11
     up.
12
              MR. DELIKAT: Is that better?
13
              THE COURT: Slightly.
14
              MR. DELIKAT: Mike Delikat. And -- 15
              THE COURT: I'm sorry. I'm not hearing.
                                                        I 16 think you said "Mr. Delikat," but it's very 17 difficult to hear you, sir.
18
              MR. DELIKAT: I'll call on a landline.
19
              THE COURT: If you could, please. Thank 20 you.
21 We'll wait for him to rejoin. In the meantime, anyone else?
22
23
                     Thank you. We'll begin once we have Okay.
24
     Mr. Delikat rejoin us.

MR. DELIKAT: Yes. I'm back in on a landline, Your Honor, for Defendant Mogul, and I'm joined by my colleague, Brianna Messina.

THE COURT: Okay. Thank you very much. All right.

Well, we're here today because Mr. Cuomo requested a conference with respect to his subpoenas to Ms. Boylan and the Attorney General's Office. did just first want to say, though, that the Court received a barrage of filings from the parties and the non-parties over the last 24 hours, including as recently as 19 minutes before the conference, which is very much unappreciated. Some of the filings were the transcripts, which the Court had to request because there were transcripts from the proceedings in front of Judge Merkl that the parties referred to or were otherwise relevant to this and the parties neglected to provide them. And then, otherwise, last minute requests to appear, which the Court has granted, and then an additional submission of documents that I was somehow expected to review in the 19 minutes before this conference began. That's unappreciated. It's disappointing, given the quality of the federal practitioners who are appearing on this call, and the Court does not countenance it.

Going forward, we will put additional restrictions on the deadlines for the parties to comply with before conferences, but we will not countenance chaos, and the parties should be aware of that and should comport themselves accordingly.

Now, I'd like to begin with the subpoena to Ms. Boylan, but what I would like to start with on that issue, though, is the question of the status of Ms. Bennett's production of documents; specifically, her communications with Ms. Boylan to date.

So, Ms. Schnell, could I ask you to start with that, please.

MS. SCHNELL: I believe we have produced those documents, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. So there are no remaining communications between Ms. Bennett and Ms. Boylan that remain to be produced?

MS. SCHNELL: Not that I'm aware of. I will double-check, but I am pretty confident of that.

THE COURT: Okay. And are there any other documents that Ms. Bennett has that are somehow communications or other correspondence relating to Ms. Boylan?

1 MS. SCHNELL: No. 2 THE COURT: All right. Thank you. Okay. Would Mr. Cuomo's counsel like to start, 3 4 specifically, now that you do have documents that 5 Ms. Bennett has produced, or communications that Ms. Bennett has produced with respect to Ms. Boylan, who 6 7 is obviously not a party to this case, why anything further from Ms. Boylan is relevant and necessary? 8 9 MS. TRZASKOMA: Good afternoon, Your Honor. Theresa Trzaskoma, and I will start by apologizing 10 11 for any chaos. That is certainly not our intention, 12 and we appreciate a no-chaos rule and will abide by 13 I think, you know, the last minute -- the very 14 last-minute filing was simply to put before Your Honor, not expecting Your Honor to have an 15 16 opportunity to review it before this conference, but so that you would have it available afterwards. 17 18 But we have received from Ms. Bennett 19 certain communications with Ms. Boylan which confirm 20 what we believed, which is that Ms. Bennett and 21 Ms. Boylan were in communication. We thought it was at least as early as January of 2021, but we now 22 23 know that it was a month earlier, in early December, 24 right around the time that Ms. Boylan first made public allegations against Governor Cuomo.

We know from those communications that they were coordinating with each other, with others, with PR consultants, with Ms. Boylan's campaign staff, with reporters. And, you know, our view -- and we don't know whether Ms. Bennett retained everything that Ms. Boylan retained.

For example, we believe that they may have been communicating on self-deleting -- you know, apart from what we got, which are communications across a variety of platforms, like Instagram,

Twitter, other forms of communication. We think that they were -- they may have been communicating on encrypted apps, like Confide and Signal, that are self-deleting. I don't know.

It appears, perhaps, Ms. Bennett didn't retain any of that, if it existed. I don't know if it exists with Ms. Boylan. I know it appears, for example, from the discovery that we've seen, that Ms. Boylan was or is writing a book. We believe that she likely retained -- she probably kept notes of her calls.

For example, we know that there was a call -- at least one, probably many more -- calls between Ms. Bennett and Ms. Boylan. I don't know if Ms. Boylan took notes of those calls, if she conveyed to other third parties, including the reporters, the PR folks, other complainants, information that she was getting from Ms. Bennett or information she was conveying to Ms. Bennett.

So, in short, I don't have any confidence that the entire universe of their communications you know, has been provided to us. And Ms. Boylan is a non-party, but she is a highly relevant witness for purposes of discovery. I will note that she -- Ms. Boylan was identified in both our initial disclosures and in Ms. Bennett's initial disclosures.

I know that Ms. Boylan is relying on a letter that Ms. Bennett's counsel sent saying that they do not intend at this time to call Ms. Boylan as a witness at trial. I don't think that has any bearing on whether we're entitled to take discovery from Ms. Boylan. But I would note that Governor Cuomo may well call Ms. Boylan as a witness at trial, and, you know, in large part because it's hard to understand -- you know, almost impossible to understand the circumstances of Ms. Bennett's coming forward with her public allegations against the governor without understanding what was going on with Ms. Boylan.

And there are other -- you know, I'm happy to address the relevance issues, but just in terms of the question that Your Honor posed, which is, why do we need additional discovery, document discovery from Ms. Boylan, I think there is likely a treasure trove there, and we're entitled to it.

THE COURT: Well, I'd just like to understand, with respect to Mr. Cuomo's subpoena to Ms. Boylan, though. I'm just pulling it up here. It's pretty broad. You know, there are 19 different requests here, and they don't just relate to Ms. Bennett. Number 1 and number 17 do, but there's a lot here as to Ms. Boylan, who is not a party to this case. And although there's a reference, two references in paragraphs 5 and 125 to her announcement of her allegations against Mr. Cuomo. She's otherwise -- those are not described in detail. So I'm just -- I'm struggling with why anything other than her communications with Ms. Bennett, which you may have some, but admittedly maybe not all, of why there's anything else here that's relevant in that regard.

MS. TRZASKOMA: Yeah, I mean, I think this goes to Governor Cuomo's -- it, in part -- so it goes to two things, Your Honor. One, it goes to what I would say is Ms. Bennett's credibility and her motivations in coming forward. And so, you know, Ms. Bennett -- or Ms. Boylan was making allegations, and Ms. Bennett was coordinating with her.

And as we discussed on the call relating to Hamilton College, we do think that there is a theme with Ms. Bennett, which is that she made supporting victims of sexual harassment and sexual assault, kind of, her personal brand. And I'm not saying that lightly. I'm saying that based on a résumé that I have seen, and on, you know, her e-mails to others.

And I think, you know, we're entitled to explore what motivated Ms. Bennett to come forward, which were Ms. Boylan's allegations. At some point, information started to come out that Ms. Boylan was unreliable and untruthful. And Ms. Boylan -- I mean, Ms. Bennett, nevertheless, continued to stand shoulder to shoulder with Ms. Boylan. And I think that is very important information relevant to Ms. Bennett's motivations and her credibility. And, you know, we believe that Ms. Bennett embellished her allegations in order to support Ms. Boylan and continued to do so even after it became clear that

Ms. Boylan had not been truthful.

And so it's all those circumstances around what was happening in late 2020, in the beginning of 2021, where, you know, they are all -- where Ms. Bennett and Ms. Boylan are communicating with reporters, they're communicating with PR folks, and they're communicating with other complainants to recruit others to come forward. And the fact that Ms. Boylan was not truthful, had ulterior motives, and, you know, either hoodwinked Ms. Bennett or manipulated her is an important part of Governor Cuomo's defense.

THE COURT: Right. But all of that is going to be in their communications with each other. There's not going to be a mini trial in this case about Ms. Boylan. She's not a party to this case. And Mr. Cuomo doesn't have any claims against Ms. Boylan in this case. So going for the --

MS. TRZASKOMA: Well, I --

THE COURT: -- throat of the truth or falsity of what Ms. Boylan was alleging, even if what Ms. Boylan was alleging was false, and I have no finding on that one way or the other, that doesn't mean that what Ms. Bennett said was true or false. Those two things are totally independent of each other.

MS. TRZASKOMA: Well, I'm not proposing a mini trial, certainly, Your Honor, but what I am proposing -- what we are seeking is, you know, under the broad ambit of what's discoverable, we are seeking information about the reliability of Ms. Boylan's own allegations and the fact that Ms. Bennett willingly jumped on that bandwagon and -- and so, you know, Your Honor -- I mean, they coordinated with each other. And the fact that Ms. Bennett was coordinating with a person who was not being truthful is, you know -- and who was doing so -- Ms. Boylan was doing so for the purpose of, you know, furthering her political campaign is just -- it's really all part of the atmosphere of what prompted Ms. Bennett to come forward.

And it's not a mini trial. It is, as I said, like, you know, it's very relevant to what Ms. Bennett was doing. And, you know, to the point of -- I don't think this is all in their communications necessarily. I think there's going to be a lot of information about the nature and reach and scope of their joint effort to coordinate, recruit and encourage others is absolutely going to be part of what's in Ms. Boylan's documents and not necessarily part of what's in Ms. Bennett's.

THE COURT: I appreciate that, but there has to be a tie to Ms. Bennett and her claim. And what Ms. Boylan -- that Ms. Boylan may have encouraged some other complainant to do something independent of Ms. Bennett, that doesn't have anything to do with this case. That's not relevant.

MS. TRZASKOMA: Well, I guess I -- I mean,
I hear that, but I vehemently disagree because I think -- you know, for example, part of what we think was motivating Ms. Bennett is that Ms. Boylan was running for political office at the time this all came out. Ms. Bennett may have been looking for a job. I don't know. Maybe she wanted to work with Ms. Boylan.

We have -- you know, part of the information that we submitted to the Court is a calendar invite between -- in December of 2020 between Ms. Bennett, Ms. Boylan and Ms. Boylan's campaign manager, or who we believe is Ms. Boylan's campaign manager.

And I do think that Governor Cuomo's defense -- we don't want a mini trial, but we are entitled to explore whether Ms. Boylan's allegations were true or not and what Ms. Bennett knew or didn't know about that. And I think, you know -- and 2

1
     just --
              THE COURT: When is -- 3
 4
              MS. TRZASKOMA: -- there's a very big 5 difference between -- yeah.
                                   Sorry.
 6
              THE COURT: When is Ms. Bennett's 7 deposition?
8
              MS. TRZASKOMA:
                               I'm sorry?
 9
              THE COURT: When is Ms. Bennett's 10 deposition?
11
              MS. TRZASKOMA: We have not scheduled it.
     Ms. Bennett has not completed her production of 12 13 documents. On a call last week, I think, they were 14 not able -- Ms. Schnell was not able to tell us when that would be completed. But we -- you know, but we 15 16
     do want and are entitled to this non-party discovery 17
     in advance of that deposition so that we have, you 18 know, as much information as we can get about what 19
     was going on so that we are able to intelligently 20
     and fully and capably question her on these issues.
21
              THE COURT: Right. But why do you need it 22 before Ms. Bennett's deposition? I mean, Ms. Boylan 23 is a non-party, so necessarily the burden on her 24 should be minimized as much as possible.
25 required to carry the load for Ms. Bennett.
```

1 guys have to do your work. The defendants have to 2 do their work as to Ms. Bennett and bring out -- if 3 there are things that Ms. Bennett says about Ms. Boylan, then you have a much stronger case -- or 4 5
     much stronger argument why a further discovery from
     Ms. Boylan might be relevant, but you're inverting
 6 7 it in a way that's unfair to somebody who's a non-party.
 8 9
              MS. TRZASKOMA: I don't think we are, 10
     Your Honor. And I would note that plaintiff has already taken non-party discovery, and Your Honor 11 12 has enforced non-party discovery without her having 13 taken a single deposition. So I don't -- I think, 14 you know, this is a normal discovery practice, which is to gather as much information as possible about 15 16
     the topics that you're going to depose a witness or, 17
     you know, a party on, and to have that all available 18 to us. And I don't think Rule 26 put -- imposes a 19 particular order on us. And it's -- 20
              THE COURT: I wasn't saying that it did.
21
     But in terms of somebody who has come forward and 22 objected, in part, on the grounds of burden, it 23 makes sense to -- 24
              MS. TRZASKOMA: Well --
25
              THE COURT: -- pursue the information from the parties first, and then see what's left and what's needed from the non-parties. MS. TRZASKOMA: Well, it's hard -- I mean, part of this issue, Your Honor, is we have no idea what Ms. Boylan has or what the burden is on her. And I would say, you know, she has made this burden argument without actually meeting her burden to show it's some undue burden. And, frankly, if she says, I have a million communications with Ms. Bennett, and it's going to require -- or with Ms. Bennett and about Ms. Bennett, and it's going to take me a lot of time to gather and produce them, that makes me want them all the more. But I don't understand why she cannot, for example, run simple search terms through her communications and turn those over to us in advance of our having to take Ms. Bennett's deposition. And, likewise, I don't know why Ms. Boylan cannot sit for a day-long deposition in this matter.

THE COURT: All right.

MS. TRZASKOMA: And --

THE COURT: Go ahead. Finish your statement, and then I want to hear from Ms. Boylan's counsel.

MS. TRZASKOMA: Yeah. Again, just to go back to the disclosures, both parties have identified her as a witness with relevant information, and under those circumstances, and under all the circumstances here, you know, the subpoena is proper and it should be enforced. THE COURT: Thank you. All right. Ms. Perry, do you or one of your colleagues want to address the points that Ms. Trzaskoma has made? MS. PERRY: Yes. Thank you, Your Honor. This is Danya Perry. So just to, I guess, take the last point made by Ms. Trzaskoma first, it's not the case that both parties have identified her as a witness. As Your Honor is aware, Ms. Katz, on behalf of the plaintiff, has said they do not anticipate calling Ms. Boylan as a witness. And it's certainly the case that Mr. Cuomo does not want Ms. Boylan in this case. He has said in the Trooper 1 case that he does not believe Ms. Boylan has relevant information, as much as he's been hounding her with subpoenas -- I believe we're up to 15. I may have lost count -- in the other case, what he's trying to do, and he said the quiet part out loud in that case is relitigate the Attorney General's investigation and prove himself, essentially, to be innocent.

In this case -- and he's also said another quiet part out loud in that case, which is that he does not -- you know, he had said in that case that if Ms. Boylan had not been all over the complaint, he would not be subpoening her.

Well, she really does not feature prominently in this case. And, again, the plaintiff has said that they're willing to take her out of the case. But, nevertheless, he wants her in this case, and it really is so that, as Ms. Trzaskoma just said, they can impeach her. But there's no real reason to impeach her. And it really is the convoluted explanation that we just heard, was -- I mean, in their letter they said it was to impeach Ms. Boylan. They actually said that. And now, under Your Honor's questioning, it was, well, it was more indirect. It was to impeach Ms. Boylan to somehow indirectly impeach Ms. Bennett.

That really is a bridge too far. It really is to get campaign records and records about sexual history and personnel records to somehow impeach Ms. Boylan, which somehow would impugn Ms. Bennett really, really is going too far afield. 1 2 But if we had been able to have a 3 productive meet and confer, I think we -- and 4 they've been willing to narrow the subpoena in some 5 ways -- I think we probably could have gotten to a place where I do agree with Your Honor that 6 7 arguably, at least, requests number 1 and 17 are the only requests that are moderately theoretically 8 9 relevant. Of course, they're overbroad because they 10 request all communications and all documents. 11 And I think, though, if the parties could 12 sit down and, you know, come to discussions, perhaps 13 communications that involve just sexual harassment 14 allegations against Mr. Cuomo, not all communications with Ms. Bennett, perhaps there 15 16 are -- I don't know this, but perhaps there are 17 documents that would be relevant that have not been 18 produced. And so we would be willing -- as 19 Ms. Trzaskoma just said, we would be willing to run 20 limited searches for that. And I do agree it's 21 potentially relevant. I --22 THE COURT: But can I interrupt -- can I 23 interrupt you for a second? 24 MS. PERRY: Of course.

AMM TRANSCRIPTION SERVICE - 631.334.1445

THE COURT: Has Ms. Boylan done a search of her communications to know what the universe is of her communications with Ms. Bennett, what the volume is?

MS. PERRY: Not just with Ms. Bennett. We have -- in the other case, we had run a search and there's a large volume of documents. I think we're at about 500,000 that have been potentially relevant in that case.

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. PERRY: And the subpoena in this case is largely duplicative of that one, but I think if the parties can come to terms, obviously, it would be a much, much smaller universe of documents, and I think that could be somewhat reasonable.

It is the case that Ms. Bennett and Ms. Boylan are -- have become friendly, and they talk about a lot of other things. I just reviewed the communications that we got minutes before the conference, and there are just a lot of, you know, heart emojis, I think, and likes and that kind of thing. So there are a lot of things I think would be nonresponsive if we can just talk about, you know, sexual allegations -- sexual misconduct allegations. So I would like to think that reasonable people can come to terms.

THE COURT: Do you know when Ms. Boylan and Ms. Bennett began communicating about the allegations against Mr. Cuomo?

MS. PERRY: Yes. I'm glad you asked,
Your Honor, because I did want to come to that because Mr. Cuomo's papers -- the letter motion requesting this conference says at least twice, and it has been a theory of the case, that Ms. Boylan is the provocateur in this case, that she induced other people, including Ms. Bennett to the point here to come forward; that she was the person that created this domino effect.

And with regard specifically to

Ms. Bennett -- and from what I've seen in the seconds that I had to look at these communications,

Ms. Bennett, it seems, from the complaint, came forward with her sexual harassment allegations in the spring or summer of 2020. She did not know

Ms. Boylan at the time. They had never met. They knew nothing about each other. They were completely, you know, parallel, had their own independent, traumatic sexual harassment experiences with the then-governor, and did not know each other,

had not spoken until Ms. Boylan came forward in December of 2020. This is my understanding with public tweets.

And then it was Ms. Bennett, as I understand it, who came forward and reached out to Ms. Boylan. This is my understanding. And, again, I have an imperfect understanding, and I just saw these records.

THE COURT: You're not under oath.

MS. PERRY: Thank you, Your Honor.

And so I think that's an inaccurate rendition of the facts here, to say that Ms. Boylan was the instigator here who created, you know, this whole domino effect that took the governor down.

But, in any event, I think that, you know, these -- I believe it's 19 categories of documents -- really has nothing whatsoever to do with the facts in this case -- I'm sorry, 17 categories of documents -- other than, as I mentioned, you know, the communications and the documents that go specifically to communications with the plaintiff in this case and to her lawsuit.

And so I certainly would be willing to sit down with Ms. Glavin and Ms. Trzaskoma and see if we can work out reasonable search terms. I would like to think that we can and wouldn't have to burden the Court with that.

THE COURT: Okay. Thank you.

I do want to give Ms. Trzaskoma a chance to respond, but I should hear from Ms. Sulkowski next on behalf of Ms. DeRosa.

MS. SULKOWSKI: Thank you, Your Honor. Sarah Sulkowski.

Your Honor, we agree with Governor Cuomo's counsel, that it's clear that Ms. Boylan was the instigator of the process that led to the filing of this complaint. And importantly, the plaintiff, in re-tweeting Ms. Boylan's initial allegations against the governor, said expressly that these allegations are emblematic of what the executive chamber under Governor Cuomo was like, and, it appears, tailored her own accusations to match those.

And so evidence that Ms. Boylan's allegations were false and that she had -- her credibility is at issue and that she had a motive to lie, or perhaps multiple motives to lie, would go directly to plaintiff's own credibility and the credibility of her allegations. I don't think that should be overlooked.

Again, you know, plaintiff's initial disclosures named Ms. Boylan, not as a witness, but as an individual likely to have discoverable information relevant to this action. And those initial disclosures have not been revised or corrected. They're still extant, as well as Ms. DeRosa's and Governor Cuomo's initial disclosures, all of which identify Ms. Boylan as having discoverable information.

THE COURT: All right. Well, it's basically undisputed, and there's evidence now before the Court that she had communications with Ms. Bennett about her allegations concerning Governor Cuomo. So I don't think there's any dispute that the initial disclosures are correct in including Ms. Boylan, but I think you're placing a lot more weight on that than is warranted.

MS. SULKOWSKI: Well, the concept of relevant information under Rule 26 is broad for a reason: Because parties should be able to explore, you know, what a plaintiff -- particularly what a plaintiff herself denominates as relevant information.

I know the Court doesn't have Ms. DeRosa's document subpoena in front of it. I apologize for that, but we didn't want to submit it at the last minute. But it does seek categories of documents extremely similar to those sought by Governor Cuomo; for example, communications with or about Ms. DeRosa and Governor Cuomo during the relevant period.

These, even if not directly with plaintiff, go to the working environment in the executive chamber, which is a core part of the allegations of both women and, thus, to plaintiff's claims and Ms. DeRosa's defense for those claims.

Communications concerning investigations of allegations against Governor Cuomo -- you know, again, if Ms. Boylan was orchestrating a campaign against the governor, as we believe she was, these communications may reveal that, and that would go to Ms. Bennett's credibility as well.

THE COURT: How?

MS. SULKOWSKI: Well, again, if Ms. Boylan persuaded Ms. Bennett to join her, or if
Ms. Bennett, on her own conformed to what we think is her pattern of behavior, which is to see a woman alleging sexual harassment or assault and to try to buttress her claims with her own allegations, perhaps by exaggerating things she experienced that were de minimus, you know, the -- Ms. Boylan's communications evidencing that orchestrated campaign or the falseness of her own allegations that Ms. Bennett then tailored her own to match would be highly relevant.

THE COURT: Then all falls into the two that we've been talking about, that Ms. Boylan's counsel just said she was willing to work with you about, which is the communications between Ms. Bennett and Ms. Boylan.

MS. SULKOWSKI: Respectfully --

THE COURT: Yet that doesn't get you to all of her communications with anybody else in the governor's office about other complainants, for example.

MS. SULKOWSKI: We think those would be relevant because, again, if Ms. Boylan's allegations, which Ms. Bennett has referred to as emblematic, as indicative of what it was like in the executive chamber, before she ever aired her own, if those are false and her communications with others demonstrate that they're false or they're exaggerated or they're trumped up, that's relevant to what plaintiff subsequently did and why she did it.

I would like to mention at this point that, you know, we had a meet and confer with Ms. Boylan's counsel. They said they would take our requests under consideration. They later came back to us and reiterated that they would not produce anything to us. And I would note that I believe Governor Cuomo's counsel has received a de minimus, you know, 25 pages. We haven't even received that.

We've received nothing. And they've told us we will receive nothing. I appreciate their expressed willingness today to reconsider that position, but I don't think we should be forced to go back into a meet and confer with counsel who could have made these offers long ago without getting a ruling and potentially, quite likely, have to be back before the Court in short order.

THE COURT: Well, it's not shocking to me that this group is not able to reach agreement among themselves without Court intervention. So you're here now, and I'm going to give you guidelines for how you're going to meet and confer and what the scope is going to be. But let me hear from Ms. Trzaskoma again. In particular, if you could address, you know, if the date range were to begin in December 2020, for example, you know, tell me why that's not sufficient.

MS. TRZASKOMA: Oh, that for us, is sufficient. That is when -- I mean, we didn't know when -- so, you know, as Ms. Perry said -- I think she said that they didn't know each other, that Ms. Bennett and Ms. Boylan didn't know each other before then or, you know, may not have been communicating.

But, in any event, it's really about the -it's really about that time frame. We now know that's basically when they started communicating, so we're -- so, you know, we thought that the request was not overly broad because it would be naturally limited in time by the -- you know, when they were communicating.

But I -- you know, I wanted -- I appreciate Ms. Sulkowski's comments because I think they mirror ours, which is -- so Ms. Bennett had complaints. As I understand it, those -- the nature of her complaints changed significantly and dramatically after she started communicating with Ms. Boylan and after -- she never said previously -- and I know -- she's going to disagree, I'm sure. It's not what her complaint reflects, but I believe it's what the evidence will reflect -- that she did not previously complain that she was sexually harassed. And that changed after she started speaking with Ms. Boylan.

And, you know, for Governor Cuomo's defense of this case, I do not -- he is going to rely on

Ms. Boylan and the fact that she was out in public making false accusations and using those false accusations to recruit others to embellish their own claims. And that is his defense. And I appreciate that Ms. Boylan doesn't like it, Ms. Bennett doesn't like it, a lot of the other complainants don't like it, but that is his defense.

And just to Ms. Perry's point about the issues in Trooper 1, as Your Honor knows, that complaint is very different than this complaint; but they both share a reliance on the Attorney General's report. The Attorney General's report is part of Ms. Bennett's complaint, just as it is Trooper 1's. They have slightly different consequences. Ms. Bennett's entire retaliation claim has to do with statements that were made on Governor Cuomo's behalf after the AG report came out. And you cannot understand the purpose of those statements and the defense of him without understanding that the AG report and investigation were deeply flawed, were full of inaccuracies, and contained, you know, allegations, credited allegations, including Ms. Boylan's.

So, you know, to try to disentangle -- and in Trooper 1, Judge Merkl, you know, I think approached that case -- and you can see it,

Your Honor, I think, in the transcripts, which,

again, I apologize for not providing to Your Honor earlier. I think you can see it there, that Judge Merkl was hoping that case would get whittled down, but it is as broad as it ever was.

And, you know, so to say that we wanted to relitigate the Attorney General's report, yeah, because it is front and center in that case, and it is inevitably, unless the retaliation claims get dismissed, it is going to be part of this case.

So it's not -- it is chopping us off at the knees to say there can be a lawsuit that complains about a defendant's reaction to a public report and, you know, about statements that were made about how unreliable it was and not for -- for Governor Cuomo not to be able to explain to a jury why he believed that and why it is true that it's unreliable.

So, you know, I think, and I appreciate that Your Honor is going to give some guidance, but I don't think that it is appropriate to say that we're getting only the communications directly between Ms. Bennett and Ms. Boylan because I do think that Ms. Boylan was communicating with a lot of other people around Ms. Bennett and Ms. Bennett's allegations, and we were entitled to that as well.

THE COURT: Okay. Thank you.

MS. TRZASKOMA: And the final thing I would say is I know that there is this letter, as I mentioned, that, you know, Ms. Bennett is not going to call Ms. Boylan as a trial witness. But in her initial disclosures, she says she is going to rely on Ms. Boylan's and Trooper 1's allegations. And if Ms. Bennett is going to rely -- even if not calling her as a trial witness, if she is planning to rely in any way, shape, or form on Ms. Bennett's allegations, we are entitled to full discovery about those allegations.

THE COURT: Okay. Thank you.

Ms. Schnell, can you speak to that last point about the suggestion that Ms. Bennett may be relying on Trooper 1's or Ms. Boylan's allegations to support her?

MS. SCHNELL: No. If you look -- we don't. If you look at the complaint, we do not -- unlike the Trooper 1 complaint, which if you looked at it, Your Honor, it includes lengthy sections on each of the women who made complaints about Governor Cuomo. Ms. Bennett's complaint does not. Ms. Bennett's complaint stands on whether she was sexually harassed by Mr. Cuomo, not whether any of these other women were. THE COURT: Okay. Thank you. Ms. Perry, any points that you want to respond to before we try to have a more focused discussion of the scope guidance that I'm going to give you? And let me just say before you do that, Ms. Longley, I appreciate that you've been waiting here for 45 minutes. We will get to you very shortly. Go ahead, Ms. Perry. Any points you want to make in response to what either Ms. DeRosa's or Mr. Cuomo's counsel said? MS. PERRY: I don't think I do, Your Honor. Ordinarily, I do, but it's almost impossible to respond to because there's nothing focused there. They're basically just saying -- I mean, they have said very explicitly, we want to relitigate the entirety of the AG's report and that wasn't fair to the governor, and, therefore, we get to take incredibly broad, incredibly damaging, incredibly burdensome, not particularly relevant discovery of a non-party. And how can I really even respond to that? You know, I've made my points. If Your Honor is even considering it, I certainly would request some process and the opportunity to brief that, but it just seems to me so outlandish and so beyond the pale that it's hard to respond to at this point any more than that.

THE COURT: Okay. Well, before we end up -- I'm hoping to avoid any motion practice altogether, so that's why I want to give you guidance about what I want you to meet and confer about, and hope that we can come to a resolution through that process without there having to be motion practice as to the other request.

So what the -- what I think the scope should be, focusing on request number 1, which is communications with Ms. Bennett about any allegations of sexual harassment or misconduct by Governor Cuomo, and number 17, which is non-privileged communications concerning this lawsuit -- this lawsuit or Ms. Bennett's lawsuit against New York State, which, obviously, is not before me, but I think the parties should focus on those two requests.

To Ms. Trzaskoma's point, is not limited to just communications between Ms. Bennett and Ms. Boylan, but if Ms. Boylan had any communications about Ms. Bennett or Ms. Bennett's allegations with 2 someone else, then the search terms should -- that 3

1
     the parties agree on should capture those communications as well.
 4
5
              And then the time period would be from December 2020. I don't know the exact date in 6
7
     December, but the parties should have that.
     December 2020 through, I believe it's September 14, 8 9
     2022, which is the date Ms. Bennett filed her 10 complaint in this case, and that was the same 11 limitation that we put on the non-party subpoena to Mr. Cuomo's sister back in November.
12
13
              So let me just first ask Ms. Perry if those 14
     scope limitations need any clarification.
15
              MS. PERRY: No. I think that's clear, 16
     Your Honor.
                   Thank you.
17
              THE COURT: Okay. Ms. Trzaskoma?
18
              MS. TRZASKOMA: I think we would just want 19 to make sure that it's through the date of the 20 subpoena, so from December 2020 through the date of 21
     the subpoena. And I appreciate Your Honor's clarification of that.
22
23
              THE COURT: Why? Why past the date that 24
     the complaint was filed?

mean, look, I don't know if there's a representation that they did not communicate about Ms. Bennett's lawsuit or allegations after the lawsuit was filed.
Then there should be no issue. But if there were communications about the lawsuit afterwards, that's,
you know, also relevant.
        MS. PERRY: Your Honor, why don't we look at that and --
         THE COURT: Yes. Why don't you see what the volume is.
         MS. PERRY: -- something we can talk about.
Yes.
         THE COURT: Maybe you can do a -- yeah, Ms. Perry, maybe you can do a cutoff at the date of the complaint and then afterwards and see what the volume is after. I'm trying to be consistent with respect to the non-parties, and I'm also, again, mindful of the burden on Ms. Boylan, so, hence, the desire to -- I mean, that already is an almost two-year time period that we're imposing on her.
         So, for now I'm going to limit it to the same cutoff date of September 14, 2022 as we imposed with respect to Ms. Cuomo, but the parties can meet and confer about that. If there are, you know, two things in January 2023 or something, then it's comment on the proposed scope limitation?

              All right. I appreciate the parties' willingness to meet and confer about that. And at 10 11
     the end of this conference, we'll talk about a date 12
     by which I'll want a report back from you on that.
13
              Any other issues with respect to the 14 subpoena to Ms. Boylan at this time?
              MS. TRZASKOMA: Your Honor, this is Theresa
15
16
     Trzaskoma.
17
              Not with respect to the subpoena to 18
     Ms. Boylan or directly, but just to what Ms. Schnell 19 represented to the Court in terms of Ms. Bennett not 20 relying on Ms. Boylan's allegations. And, you know, 21
     I just want to clarify that she -- that what I understood Ms. Schnell to be saying is that she was 22
23
     relying solely on -- Ms. Bennett was going to rely solely on her own allegations, and that she was not 24
25 going to rely on the allegations of Ms. Boylan or anyone else, to include, for example, Trooper 1, in connection with establishing her claim.

And so it would be helpful to get clarity on that because that's not what the -- you know, that's not what's in the complaint and it's not what's in their initial disclosures. And so I -- you know, I want to make sure, as we're going forward with discovery, that we have a clear understanding of what this is going to look like as we go forward.

THE COURT: Well, I mean, you can get a transcript of this conference, and you'll have Ms. Schnell's words.

But, Ms. Schnell, if there's anything you want to elaborate on or clarify, you're welcome to.

MS. SCHNELL: You know, if you look at the complaint, we certainly reference the fact that Lindsey Boylan came forward and made a blog post.

And that is a fact that, then, Charlotte came -Ms. Bennett came forward as well.

So are we not going to refer to that fact in terms of the chronology of what happened here?

But we are not going to call her, we are not going to try to prove that Governor Cuomo sexually harassed her at all.

1 MS. TRZASKOMA: Your Honor, this is --2 again, this is Theresa Trzaskoma. 3 This is exactly my concern, is that if 4 Ms. Bennett is going to get up and say Ms. Boylan 5 made allegations against Governor Cuomo and I decided to come forward too, we're entitled to show 6 7 that these other allegations are not true. 8 THE COURT: But Ms. Bennett is not saying 9 that what Ms. Boylan alleged is true. She's saying 10 that she said it. And all of this -- that's all a 11 question for Judge Broderick, if and when any of 12 these claims get to trial, what the scope of the 13 evidence will be that is actually before the jury. 14 So --MS. TRZASKOMA: Well, I -- I think that it 15 16 is --17 THE COURT: I'm not going to --18 MS. TRZASKOMA: I just want to make a 19 record that Governor Cuomo is being denied discovery 20 into that point because I do not -- because it is 21 extremely prejudicial if this is supposed to be a case solely about Ms. Bennett and Ms. Bennett gets 22 23 in the side door someone else's -- the fact that 24 someone else made an allegation, which the jury, 25 inevitably, without -- you know, without our ability to say that that allegation turned out to be totally fabricated and hogwash, you know, and to prove it, to back it up, I think that's just -- that's exactly the point, that this -- you know, we're not even going to be in a position to move in limine properly if we cannot show the incredible prejudice that would result.

I mean, just imagine the motion in limine, which is, you know, without the benefit of being able to establish through discovery that Ms. Boylan, you know, fabricated, lied, threatened witnesses and, you know, lied about the circumstances under which she left EFD.

You know, her initial allegation is that she left because Governor Cuomo harassed her, and that's not true. That's the allegation that Charlotte Bennett is going to be referring to.

THE COURT: Okay. But it is not correct for you, your statement, Ms. Trzaskoma, that Mr. Cuomo is being denied discovery. I just ordered that he's being allowed to get discovery and I circumscribed the scope of it. So don't distort the record and don't put words in my mouth. If --

MS. TRZASKOMA: Well, I -- so I -- Your Honor --

THE COURT: Ms. Bennett does not need to even mention Ms. Boylan. The question is whether what she alleged Mr. Cuomo did, whether that happened or not. The only thing that matters is what Ms. Bennett says about that.

MS. TRZASKOMA: I --

THE COURT: So I realize that the allegation is in the complaint that Ms. Boylan said something first, but it's not relevant to whether what Ms. Bennett is alleging is true or not; and continually trying to shove that door open is not going to work.

MS. TRZASKOMA: No. Your Honor, I am not trying -- I would like the door to be slammed firmly shut, and Ms. Schnell has left the door wide open.

And I apologize for overstating that the Court is not denying us discovery, but has limited the discovery such that we, Governor Cuomo is not going to be in a position to be able to establish, you know, in the event that Ms. Bennett gets up and says Ms. -- I saw this tweet from Ms. Boylan, she said this happened to her, and we have to be able to meet that. And I don't have any -- you know, we're not -- this is still early discovery. I don't have a crystal ball. I can't foresee the future, but

I -- you know, I think it -- to allow Ms. Bennett even to make that statement or even to contemplate that she's going to be able to make -- or try to make that statement without giving Governor Cuomo discovery into that issue is very problematic.

THE COURT: Well, at this time, I have not been persuaded that requests 2 through 16 and 18 and 19 are relevant and proportionate to the needs of this case. So at this time, based on the record before me, the only request to which Ms. Boylan is going to be required to respond, and the parties have been given guidance about how to meet and confer about a scope for that response, are numbers 1 and 17.

If something changes and Mr. Cuomo thinks that he has good cause to have me broaden the scope of what I have permitted as to Ms. Boylan, you can come back and show me that. That's always the case. But in -- for now, you have this transcript. And if something changes and you have good reason to come back to me and show me that something more is warranted, you can do so. But we need to move on.

 $\label{eq:MS.TRZASKOMA:} \text{I appreciate that,} \\ \text{Your Honor.}$

THE COURT: We need to move on to the Attorney General folks who have been very, very patient.

So do you want to address -- to start with that, Ms. Trzaskoma, the issues with respect to the AG and, in particular, their suggestion that we stay that while Judge Merkl is completing her consideration of the motion for reconsideration?

MS. TRZASKOMA: So as I -- so I don't think that there's any reason for this Court to defer to what is happening in the Trooper 1 action. And as I understand it, I don't -- that motion for reconsideration was fairly limited to the July 2023 order on our motion to compel, which has -- you know, is no longer relevant because what we're talking about and what Judge Merkl is considering now with respect to the documents from the AG's Office is a completely different universe of materials, much narrower.

And, you know, so I don't actually know that Judge Merkl is considering the motion for reconsideration, but the issues that the AG has raised in any event, were never decided by Judge Merkl's July 2023 order. They are presenting in this case in a completely different way, and I think that we should move on to briefing those

They are, you know, complicated issues.
1
2
     The Attorney General has claimed, you know, 3 sovereign immunity from any subpoena and has also --
               THE COURT:
                           Let's just -- let's back way
 4 5
     up, though.
 6
              MS. TRZASKOMA:
                              Yes.
7
              THE COURT: Have there been any discussions 8
     about what the AG may be willing to produce to you?
 9
              MS. TRZASKOMA: Our understanding is the AG 10
     is willing to produce nothing to us.
11
              THE COURT: All right.
12
              Ms. Longley, is that the case? Or is there 13
     some universe -- and I know you had lengthy 14 discussions with Judge Merkl in the Trooper 1 case 15 about what narrow range of materials that the AG was 16 willing to explore.
17
              To the extent that I'm right about that, is there any universe of documents with respect to 18
19
     Ms. Bennett; and you've just heard the lengthy 20 discussion about how we're trying to focus non-party 21 discovery on Ms. Bennett's allegations here.
     there anything that the AG has that it would be 22
23 willing to consider providing?
24
              MS. LONGLEY:
                            Hi.
                                  Yes, Your Honor.
25
     office is always willing to consider anything

reasonable and proportional and relevant to the case if it will resolve the subpoena and not require us to engage, continually engage in this burdensome litigation. We were willing to try that in Trooper 1. Unfortunately, it did not result in resolving the subpoena.

We are -- you know, we -- I would say, as a general matter we would -- we were open to a similar approach to the Bennett subpoena; however, when we said, are there any path forward where we give you non-privileged materials that are tailored to the complaint and the legal claims in the Bennett case, the answer was, we want the interview memos, and they will not agree to any resolution that doesn't include interview memos. And given the extensive litigation we've had with them on multiple fronts, we're not willing to give it piecemeal and just give them some materials if it's not going to resolve the subpoena.

So in Trooper 1, we did voluntarily give them in an act of good faith -- in an opening act of good faith, we said, here, we'll look at documents that were collected by the investigators that reference Trooper 1 by name. And we believe you could get these materials under the FOIL statute, which is the way the State has waived sovereign immunity in the context of -- you know, as it would relate to this case.

So we offered that. We thought it was reasonable. It didn't go -- you know, it didn't go as we would have liked it to go. So I think in this case, you know, we would be willing to do that if Defendant Cuomo would agree that that would resolve the subpoena and he wouldn't move to compel compliance and seek our privileged material.

THE COURT: So, Ms. Trzaskoma, is the interview memo do or die?

MS. TRZASKOMA: Yeah, that's what we're seeking, Your Honor. And we don't agree that they are privileged. And we don't agree that the Attorney General's Office enjoys sovereign immunity from federal subpoena.

And I don't -- you know, what we got in Trooper 1 were four documents with Trooper 1's name on them. They were, like, telephone records or something. And, you know, it's not it -- it's not the material that we're looking for. We're looking for prior statements by witnesses with information relevant to Ms. Bennett's claims.

And so I don't think there's any point in

1 delaying. I think, you know, we need to move on 2
     with briefing this. And we just vehemently disagree 3 on the law here.
              THE COURT: Okay.
                                But how is Judge Merkl's
 4 5
     ruling -- she quashed your subpoena in -- 6
              MS. TRZASKOMA: She did not quash it.
7
              THE COURT: Well, she denied your motion to 8 compel, I guess, so -- 9
              MS. TRZASKOMA: She did. She found it was 10 too broad, and it has since been narrowed. And she 11 now then directed the Attorney General's Office to provide a privilege log of the interview memos, 12 13 which the AG's Office did. Judge Merkl then 14 directed the AG's Office to provide her with those interview memos for in camera review, which the 15
16
     Attorney General did in late -- or, like, mid- to 17 late December.
18
              I don't know how Judge Merkl -- what 19
     Judge Merkl's plan is, but I don't think it involves 20 resolving the objections that the Attorney General's 21
     Office has -- is asserting here, and including, you know, sovereign immunity, so -- and the universe of 22
23 documents is different. And -- 24
              THE COURT: But it's the interview memo.
25
     It's the same thing you're asking for here.

MS. TRZASKOMA: Well, it's a different universe of interview memo.

It's a different universe of interview memos. I mean, look, our dispute with the Attorney General has been going on for more than a year in front of -- in the Trooper 1 action. And, you know, I don't know what to say, except I think -- I don't think -- I think we have an independent lawsuit here. It is related, but it is not the same. And Judge Merkl, you know, she has indicated, as you probably saw in the prior transcript, that she would need additional briefing on the sovereign immunity issue. And that hasn't --

THE COURT: Okay. But why should we be briefing it twice?

MS. LONGLEY: Your Honor --

MS. TRZASKOMA: We haven't briefed it.

MS. LONGLEY: This is Serena from the AG's Office.

I'd like to just jump in, if I can, to say that the materials and the briefing that are at issue right now and that Judge Merkl ordered a privilege log and in camera review of are the exact same category of materials that Cuomo is seeking in the Bennett case. And those two categories are unredacted transcripts and interview memos.

And we have raised the same objections in both cases to those categories of documents. And it, you know, I can't predict 100 percent when Judge Merkl will rule, but based on her asking for in camera review, it appears that she is at least considering ruling on the privilege issue of the interview memos and the unredacted transcript.

And it is our position that -- again, not knowing the exact scope of her ruling, that it could have some preclusive effect on Defendant Cuomo in this case, and that it makes sense, given our non-party status, given the state of affairs in the Bennett case and where it is, you know, in discovery, that it's appropriate to wait and see what Judge Merkl does, and see if there is any preclusive effect or narrowing or limiting of the issues before we have to go through the burden as a non-party of litigating the same objections with Defendant Cuomo in the Southern District.

THE COURT: Okay. Thank you.

Ms. Trzaskoma?

MS. TRZASKOMA: May I just be heard briefly on that, Your Honor, because I don't -- because it's not -- I don't think that's entirely accurate.

1
              THE COURT: Yes. Go ahead.
 2
              MS. TRZASKOMA: So --
 3
              THE COURT: I mean, you don't know whether 4
     it's accurate or not. I mean -- go ahead.
 5
              MS. TRZASKOMA: Yeah.
              Well, so Ms. Longley is correct that the 6 7
     types of documents we are seeking in both cases, interview memos, unredacted transcripts, that's the 8 9 same. What's different are the, you know, the, kind 10
     of, like, the buckets of those.
11
               So in the Trooper 1 action, for example, we narrowed our request to all of the interview memos 12 13 involving any current or former member of the New 14 York State Police and any interview memo of any of the ten other claimants who are in Trooper 1's 15
16 complaint.
17
              And, arguably, most of that material is not 18 relevant to Ms. Bennett's claim, particularly if 19
     she's not planning to rely on Trooper 1.
20
               THE COURT: What are you seeking -- which 21
     memos are you seeking here?
22
              MS. TRZASKOMA: And here, we're seeking 23 memos of executive chamber employees, current and 24 former who were interviewed, since that relates to the environment, the work environment at the 25
```

1 Executive Chamber, and any interview memos or 2 unredacted transcripts that mention Ms. Bennett.
 3
               THE COURT: With that narrowing,
 4
     Ms. Longley, does it change anything about the 5
     Attorney General's position?
              MS. LONGLEY: No, Your Honor, it doesn't.
 6
              And I will say that we heard earlier
 7
8
     Ms. Trzaskoma talk about that, yes, what she wants 9 to do here is re-litigate the OAG report. And I'll 10 just say this was an OAG investigation into sexual 11 harassment by the governor in the Executive Chamber.
12
     And so by saying we're only seeking interview memos 13
     of current or former executive chamber employees, 14
     that doesn't really narrow things very much at all.
     It's almost all of the witnesses.
15
16
               So it may look on paper like a narrowing.
17
     It's not a meaningful narrowing. And it really goes 18 to, again, what we heard before is that -- and this is exactly what Cuomo argued in Trooper 1 19 20 unsuccessfully, which is that he wants to 21
     re-litigate the OAG report.
22
              And if I can go to this concept that was 23 brought up about retaliation, I just want to put on the record that whether or not -- you know, 24
25 retaliation as a legal matter, does not depend on the validity of the underlying complaint. So it doesn't depend on whether there was sexual harassment or not, it doesn't depend on if the investigation was thorough.

You know, Defendant Cuomo wants to pursue those things for his own political rehabilitation. It's not about the actual legal claim for retaliation, which is just did the person engage in protected activity; and then was there, you know, a retaliatory act in response to engaging in the protected activity. You don't need to re-litigate the OAG report in order to deal with the retaliation claim as a matter of law.

So I think we're getting far afield, and we're talking also about, you know, the scope and the relevance of certain interview memos here as opposed to Trooper 1, but I don't want to lose sight of the fact that we've also asserted a sovereign immunity defense in both cases; the briefing of that is fully submitted.

You know, Judge Merkl may want more briefing. But if she gets to that, I believe it would happen before anything would happen in the Bennett case. Again, I think it makes sense to see how things play out in the Eastern District, where we're litigating the exact same issues, the exact same sovereign immunity defense. Relevance also came up. So everything is really still on the table They've sought reconsideration of Judge Merkl's denial of their motion to compel, which she denied on relevance and burden grounds and proportionality, but she hasn't reached the other She may reach them. It seems like she is going to reach at least some of them. And really what Defendant Cuomo is trying to do here is get another do-over. And he even indicated that in the last conference before Judge Merkl, where we brought up the fact that he's now subpoenaing our lawyers who were deputized to carry out a government investigation under Executive Law 63(8). And he has a novel theory that he can -you know, if he can't get the materials from us because of sovereign immunity, he can just subpoena our deputized lawyers to get the materials that way. And --THE COURT: We don't need to get into that

THE COURT: We don't need to get into that today.

MS. LONGLEY: Okay.

THE COURT: That's not before me.

1 But what if the subpoena were limited to 2 interview memos, the interview memos for Ms. 3 Bennett's interview and any interview memos that reference Ms. Bennett, as well as any documents that 4 5 the AG received in connection with Ms. Bennett's allegations, whether from her or from somebody else? 6 7 What if it were limited that way; would the 8 AG still stand on the sovereign immunity objection? 9 MS. LONGLEY: Yes, Your Honor. I think 10 because you're going to any interview memos. 11 And, I'm sorry, I didn't catch the second 12 category. You said plaintiff's interview memo. And 13 then who were the other -- what were the other 14 interview memos? THE COURT: The interview memos that 15 16 discussed -- just the portions of any interview 17 memos that discussed Ms. Bennett. 18 MS. LONGLEY: Yeah, so we have asserted 19 privilege -- in addition to sovereign immunity, 20 we've asserted privilege over the entirety of the 21 interview memos. Plaintiff doesn't have her own interview memo. Nobody has their interview memo. 22 23 And there's a reason for that. THE COURT: That's the review that 24 25 Judge Merkl is doing, though. We're not having two AMM TRANSCRIPTION SERVICE - 631.334.1445 magistrate judges do two privilege reviews. It's bad enough that one of us has to do it. And I feel badly that it's Judge Merkl bearing the brunt of it. So, you know we're not going to -- I don't want to risk conflicting privilege decisions either.

MS. LONGLEY: Which is why it makes sense to wait for her to rule on it before, you know, the same thing gets submitted to Your Honor.

And I will say that the privilege issues are really important to this office because there's attorney-client privilege in there. There's attorney work product. But the biggest thing is probably law enforcement privilege on those documents. And the documents are full of information about people that's not public, cooperating witnesses.

And as we mentioned briefly in our letter, I think it's in footnote 1, which has even been borne out more recently, there has been from the beginning, there were credible fears by cooperating witnesses of retaliation that has been -- there's been a lot in the press. There's a lot in our briefing in Trooper 1.

Just last week, the First Department reinstated a retaliation claim brought by a former executive chamber employee who claimed -- alleged that he was fired because he spoke to the OAG investigators and corroborated sexual harassment by Governor Cuomo. And that was just reinstated. And this is why, like, you know, it is very important to our office not to be disclosing to the very person who they're -- who they have credible fears of retaliation exactly what they said. And it's really not germane to Ms. Bennett's lawsuit here. It's not relevant, it's not proportional, and there are real privacy interests, privilege interests, sovereign immunity interests.

So I think if you weigh -- if you look at the big picture and all the interests on either side, there really is not a compelling case to -- for us to consider providing them voluntarily.

THE COURT: Okay. All right.

Let's circle back to the timing with respect to Ms. Boylan because it's going to influence the timing with respect to the AG subpoena.

Is two weeks enough time for the parties to meet and confer and be prepared to report to me whether they've been able to reach an agreement with respect to the search terms that Ms. Boylan will implement?

1
 2
              Ms. Perry, is that achievable by 3
     January 18th?
 4
              MS. PERRY: I'm sorry, Your Honor.
 5
     on mute. By the 18th?
                             Was that for me?
              THE COURT: Yeah. Well, the question is 6 7 for you, and it's -- 8
              MS. PERRY: Yes.
 9
              THE COURT: -- whether two weeks is enough 10 time for you to meet and confer with Ms. Trzaskoma 11
     and Ms. DeRosa's counsel about the search terms that 12
     Ms. Boylan would implement using the guidance that I 13
     gave earlier?
14
              MS. PERRY: Yes, Your Honor. That's more than enough time.
15
16
               THE COURT: And what I would be doing is 17 asking the parties to report to me then as to 18 whether they've been able to reach an agreement or 19 if there's still a dispute. If there's still a 20 dispute, then we'll have another conference. And 21
     then, I guess, why don't we in an abundance of 22
     caution, I'll give you a date for another conference 23 the week after that.
24
              How is -- you're on the west coast, right, 25
     Ms. Perry?
```

1
              MS. PERRY: No, Your Honor. I'm in 2
     New York.
 3
                          Oh, okay. 10 a.m. on Monday,
              THE COURT:
 4
     January 22nd for a conference.
 5
              MR. MORVILLO: Your Honor?
 6
              THE COURT: Yes?
 7
              MR. MORVILLO: This is Greg Morvillo.
8
              Mr. Gruppuso and I are in a Rule 104 9 hearing that day in New Jersey on the 22nd, 23rd and 24th.
10
11
              THE COURT: Okay. How about 3 o'clock on 12
     the 25th?
13
              MS. TRZASKOMA: That's good for me.
14
              MR. MORVILLO: That works.
15
              THE COURT: All right.
16
              MS. PERRY: Actually -- 17
              THE COURT: Who is that a problem for?
              MS. PERRY: Yeah, I'm going to be out of 18 19
     town for a board meeting.
20
              THE COURT: How about the next day at 21
     3 o'clock; Friday the 26th.
22
              MS. PERRY: I'll still be at the board 23 meeting, but I could step out.
24
                          Okay. All right.
              THE COURT:
25
               So 3 p.m. on the 26th, then we'll speak.
```

1
     And what else, since we're not meeting until 2
     Friday --
              MS. TRZASKOMA: Your Honor, this is 3
 4
     Ms. Trzaskoma. I am not available on the 26th at 3.
 5
     I could do earlier that day.
 6
              THE COURT:
                           I'm committed on another case
 7
     earlier that day. How about the 29th?
8
              MS. TRZASKOMA: The afternoon of the 29th 9
     works.
10
              THE COURT: Okay.
11 Anybody else have a problem with the afternoon of the 29th?
12
13
              MS. PERRY: I do not.
14
              THE COURT: Okay. All right. 2 o'clock on the 29th.
15
              Ms. Longley, I'll get back to you, but -- 16 17 because I will want to by that time see where things 18
     have come out with respect to Judge Merkl.
19 we'll make a decision at that point whether we will 20 have to do motion practice and, if so, what the 21 scope will be.
22
              MS. LONGLEY: Okay, Your Honor. Sorry.
                                                        So
23
     are you asking about my availability on that day?
24
              THE COURT: Yes.
25
              MS. LONGLEY: Okay. Sorry. Could you -- do you remind repeating the day?
```

1
 2
              THE COURT: Yes. It's Monday, January
 3
     29th, at 2 p.m.
                             That should work.
 4
              MS. LONGLEY:
 5
              THE COURT: Okay. Great.
 6
              All right.
                           So we'll ask the parties to 7 meet and confer between now and then. And by 8
     January -- since we're not meeting until the 29th, 9
     I'll give you until the 24th to provide me with a 10 joint status letter with respect to the parties meeting and conferring and hopefully reaching an 11 12 agreement with respect to Ms. Boylan. And then 13
     we'll plan to discuss at that point whether any 14 developments in the Trooper 1 case have occurred and, if so, how that will impact the scope of any 15 16 briefing that we would need here with respect to the 17 subpoena to the Attorney General; okay?
18
              MS. TRZASKOMA: Okay. Your Honor, this is 19
     Theresa Trzaskoma.
20
              Sorry. I appreciate the Court's patience.
21
     I just have two issues that I want -- two points I 22 want to make in response to Ms. Longley because -- 23
     so the record is clear.
24
              THE COURT:
                          Okay.
25
              MS. TRZASKOMA: First of all, we do have

Ms. Bennett's interview memo, which Governor Cuomo received in the context of discovery in a criminal investigation, in a criminal case that was dismissed.

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. TRZASKOMA: It's redacted, as I understand all of the interview memos are, for information that arguably is -- contains some sort of attorney impressions.

And the second -- so I just want to raise that because I think it's not the case that, you know, those interview memos have been kept in a lockbox because they're privileged.

And the second issue is that the privilege review that Judge Merkl is doing, there is -- I think there is actually very little overlap between what Judge Merkl is reviewing right now and what Your Honor would be reviewing. I mean, the privilege log, which I'm -- which the Attorney General's Office produced, the vast majority of the interview memos are from troopers or former troopers and other complainants, so --

THE COURT: Right, but she's reviewing for the same privileges, though. So that's the point -- that's my point about not having to do -- make two magistrate judges do two privilege reviews. 1 2 I understand there may be different 3 documents, but she's reviewing for the same assertions of privilege, of attorney-client work 4 5 product and law enforcement. So it's the same. 6 It's the same nature that she's considering. 7 realize it may be a different memo, you know, a different name on the memo, but it's the same 8 9 privileges. 10 MS. TRZASKOMA: Well, I quess this goes --11 yeah, I mean, it may be that there's some 12 combination of privilege and relevance. I don't 13 know what her review is encompassing, but I just --14 I wanted to make clear that there -- that it's a different universe of materials in this case, and 15 16 also that the interview -- many -- not many -- a 17 handful of interview memos including Ms. Bennett's, 18 have been disclosed, and we have them, so ... 19 THE COURT: See, that will go to weight. 20 That will go to -- if there is a privilege, whether 21 there's a waiver, which would be addressed in the context of any briefing if we have to do that, so --22 23 MS. TRZASKOMA: Okay. Thank you, 24 Your Honor. 25 THE COURT: Yes.

1 MS. LONGLEY: Your Honor? 2 THE COURT: Yes? 3 MS. LONGLEY: It's Serena Longley from the 4 AG's office. Can I just, you know, comment on the 5 interview memos that Cuomo has? He got them through criminal discovery. 6 7 did not get them from us. And I look forward to -you know, we can certainly brief the Court if this 8 9 gets to Your Honor about why the privilege has not 10 been waived on that, but it hasn't, and, you know, 11 he got those in the context of criminal discovery in 12 New York State Criminal Court, which is very 13 different standard than is in place here in the 14 civil court. THE COURT: I understand. I'm not making 15 16 any ruling, and nobody should construe anything that 17 I've said here today, things that are not before me 18 and issues that have not been briefed, we're not 19 making a finding on those. So that's the reason for 20 deferring this and having, hopefully, a clearer 21 discussion about that. 22 Again, I'm just really trying to minimize 23 the number of issues that have to be briefed because 24 at a -- it does seem -- from what I understand, and I've read most, if not all, of what's been presented 25

to Judge Merkl, obviously, not the documents themselves, but I've read the transcripts of all of her discussions with all of you, and a lot of the issues are overlapping, and it's burdensome for the parties, and it's burdensome for two courts to have to resolve the same issue in multiple places, multiple times. So that's why I'm trying to streamline this, so that if we do have briefing, it's going to be on a quick turnaround.

I mean, the other issue that we haven't

I mean, the other issue that we haven't talked about, but we'll have to talk about on the 29th, is that the fact discovery cutoff is the end of February. Clearly, we're not going to make that. So we're going to have to assess -- the parties should be prepared to discuss at that conference, you know, what's still remaining and, you know, what, if any, additional time is going to be needed. So we don't have to get to that today, but, you know, it's out there. All right.

Ms. Schnell, for Ms. Bennett, anything else you would like to raise today while we're assembled?

MS. SCHNELL: No, Your Honor, other than we have been unsuccessful in seeking deposition dates from the defendants. And if that has not been resolved by the 29th, we would like to address that at that conference, Your Honor.

1
 2
              THE COURT: Well, what we'll do is we'll 3
     let anybody who has something to say, you need to 4
     get a letter to me by January 24th at 5 p.m.
 5
     that's your deadline. I'm not taking -- nobody is 6 going to be able to raise any issues or pop up or 7
     throw something else at me after 5 o'clock on January 24th, so ...
8
              MS. SCHNELL: Absolutely, Your Honor.
 9
10
     That's --
11
              THE COURT: If you want to have it be heard -- if you want me consider it at the January 12
13
     29th conference, that's the deadline.
14
              MS. SCHNELL: We will absolutely abide by 15
     that, Your Honor. Not a problem.
16
              THE COURT: Okay. Thank you.
17
              Ms. Trzaskoma, anything else you would like 18
     to cover today?
19
              MS. TRZASKOMA: No, Your Honor. Thank you.
20
              THE COURT: All right. Thank you.
21
              Ms. Sulkowski?
22
              MS. SULKOWSKI: Nothing, Your Honor. Thank 23
     you.
24
                          And Ms. Longley?
              THE COURT:
25
              MS. LONGLEY: Yes. One thing, Your Honor.

              In the event there are any developments in 2
     the Trooper 1 case, as it relates to the subpoena to 3
     the Attorney General's Office, would you like us to provide a, you know, update by letter to the Court 4 whenever that happens?
 5
 6
              THE COURT: Yes, I do. It doesn't have to 7
     be immediate, but you can -- 8
              MS. LONGLEY: Yeah.
 9
              THE COURT: -- do it in your January 24th 10
     letter.
11
              MS. LONGLEY: Okay. And in the unlikely 12 event there's a ruling between the 24th and the 13
     29th, I would think Your Honor would want us to 14
     write anyways to let you know.
              THE COURT: You can certainly let me know 15 16 before then. Just not after then.
17
              MS. LONGLEY: Okay. Thanks.
18
              THE COURT: All right. Either of the other 19 defendants, Ms. DesRosiers or Ms. Mogul, anything 20 else you want to raise?
21
              It's nothing or either that they're on 22
     mute.
           Okay.
23
              MR. DELIKAT: No, Your Honor, for Defendant
24
     Mogul.
25
              THE COURT: Okay. Thank you.

 3
               THE COURT: Okay. All right.
 4
               Thank you very much, everyone. You'll see 5 a post-conference order from us. And we'll be adjourned.
